

Information about the sale of domain name kotlarz.com

Hi, My name is Andy Kotlarz, and I am the owner of the domain kotlarz.com. I purchased this domain in 2005, and it has served me well in supporting my career as an Engineering Consultant, as well as for publishing interesting items from my travels. I retired in 2019, and found my need for this domain diminishing, so I decided to pass it on to someone who could make better use of it. It would, of course, be a Kotlarz.

I plan on putting the domain up for auction on eBay.co.uk around mid-May, 2024, and will be using LinkedIn as the primary vehicle for general announcements. However, I will also be issuing regular newsletters with further information on the sale of the domain, such as:

- History of kotlarz.com
- Modality of transfer
- Preparing to transfer
- Choosing a website style
- Additional features
- Technical support
- and more . . .

If you are interested in receiving this additional information, send me a Contact Request at LinkedIn, with Domain Sale included at the beginning of the text.

My LinkedIn profile can be found here .

In the meantime, here are a couple of pages you may like to browse:

- My resume
- The BusStops of Belarus
- Preparing for Hurricane Dean
- Back to Home Page